Excerpt: . co-operation and understanding and sympathetic relationship the groups of workers scattered over the country, Miss Blow proved always a central figure. In a preamble to some of the reports presented by the Committee, the following words, suggested largely by Miss Blow, present her attitude with regard to the outcome of the work which had its culmination in the book, The Kindergarten. The discussions which have culminated in these reports have resulted in giving to the members clearer insight and an increasing appreciation of our respect for differing points of view, and the hope is expressed that in this honest presentation of view, the whole body of kindergartners may be stimulated to more alert thought and earnest study which may eventually lead to larger syntheses. The following quotation from Emerson seems to express the spirit of the great work of which Susan E. Blow...
